

BOXING OUT NEGATIVITY

Dear Parent,

Confidence, the belief in one's self, is the most important thing a parent wants to instill in their child. Confident children are happier, motivated, more relaxed, do better in school and are more successful in life. Experts agree, motivation is more important than skill to accomplish their goals. Parents don't need to be experts to see this with their own eyes. There is no other industry or service better at building a child's confidence and motivation than our martial arts program! Our friendly instructors and staff will help your child gain confidence, while learning to have respect for themselves and others. We guarantee improvements in your child's confidence, motivation and better grades in school.

Derek Brown

Coach